IKONOS Media Recording Studio - 2nd phase

PROJECT summary

The Ikonos Media team has made significant progress in establishing their new studio, with a focus on creating a state-of-the-art recording facility to produce high-quality video programs for the Balkan region. Although Ikonos Media team has already begun using some of the video technology that has been purchased, such as cameras and editing equipment, they still require substantial support to complete the studio building. Despite this progress, unexpected costs have arisen during construction, threatening to delay the project's completion and highlighting the urgent need for additional funding.

The team has successfully replaced three windows and the entrance door, providing better natural light and security for the studio. They have also installed exterior wall insulation, which will help to reduce energy costs and create a more comfortable working environment. Additionally, they completed the necessary roof replacement, addressing an unexpected issue. However, this unexpected expense contributed to the team exceeding their initial budget.

To finalize the building and create a functional studio environment, they need to address several key areas, including creating a "room within the room" with proper insulation, installing air-conditioning and heating systems, finishing the walls, ceiling, and flooring, and purchasing essential equipment like acoustic curtains, sound boxes, and additional recording equipment. Once these updates are finished, the team is eager to utilize their new studio for producing engaging content that shares the Gospel across the region.

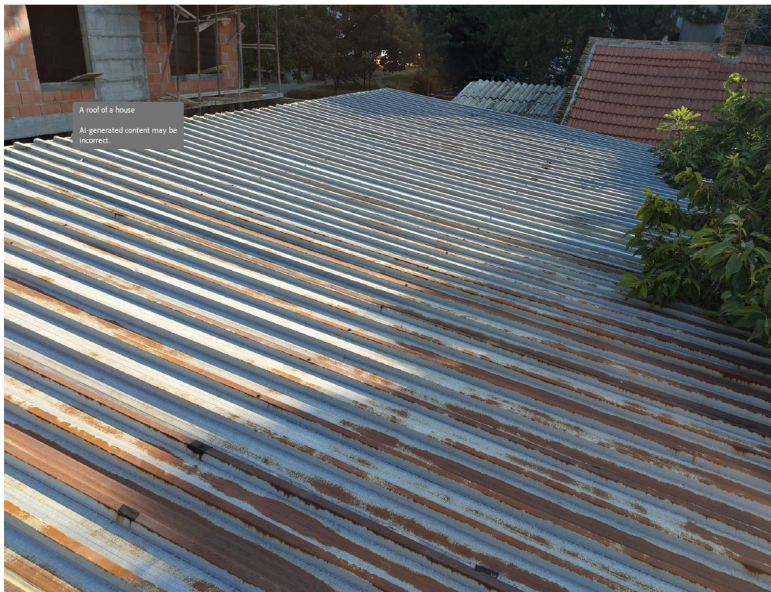

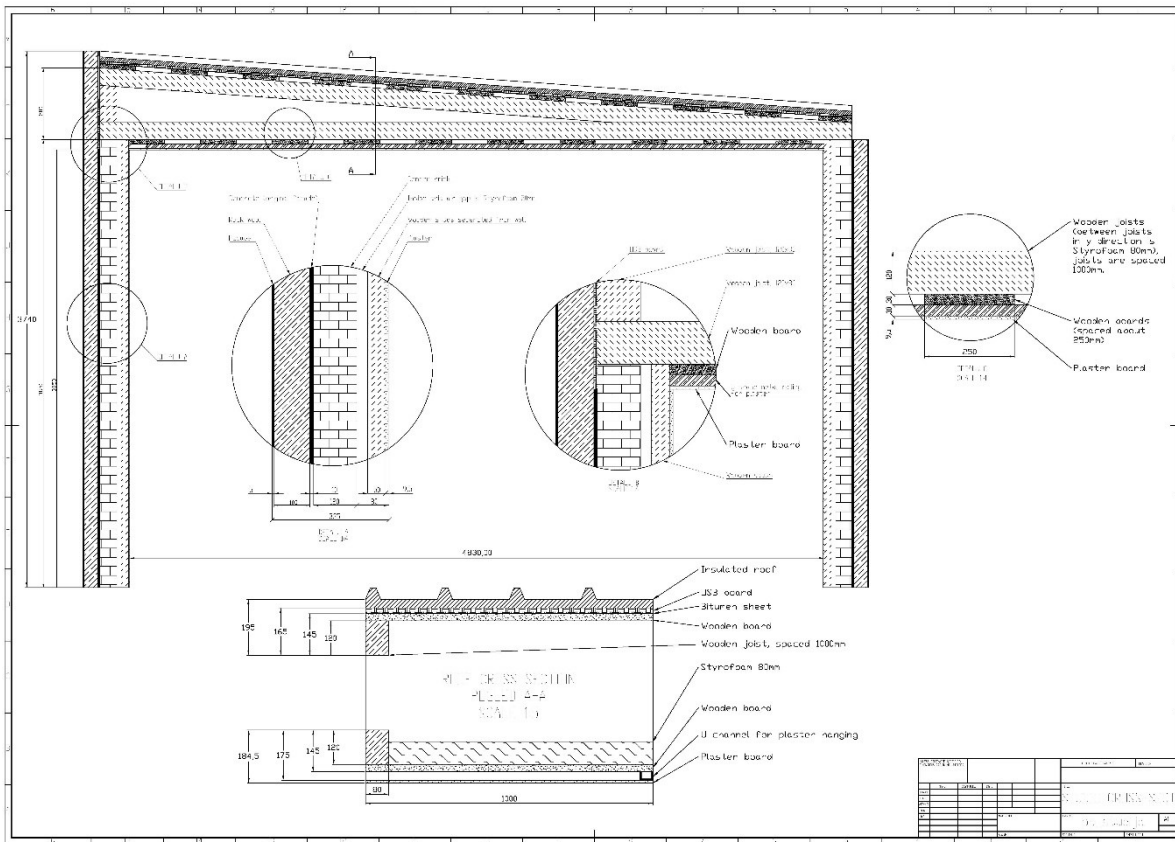

The Ikonos Media team is grateful for the progress they have made so far and is excited to bring their vision to life. They kindly request consideration of a donation to help bridge the financial gap and complete the Ikonos Media studio in Serbia. Necessary funding will allow them to create a professional studio environment, where they can produce high-quality podcasts, new video programs, and continue cornerstone content production for multiple Balkan languages.
